Subject: Initial inter-agency review of the Fourth National Climate Assessment - Due 8/28
Importance: High

The second-order draft of the Fourth National Climate Assessment (NCA4) is now available for review by EPA and the other USGCRP agencies. This review is provide an opportunity to ensure that the science is accurately represented and to identify instances where the text may be seen as implying specific policy actions. After the NCA4 is revised in response to comments, it will be made available for public comment and submitted to the National Academies for external peer review.

Darrell Winner is leading the EPA review process and will provide access to the NCA4 chapters. Darrell will also consolidate EPA's comments into a single submission.

To provide comments, please send Darrell a note and he will let you know how to access the chapters (see the chapter list below). Comments are due to Darrell by COB Monday, August 28. If there are others in EPA that are not included on the list, but that should be part of the review, please let Darrell know and he can provide access as appropriate.

Please don't hesitate to contact me or Darrell if you have any questions.
